

Why to bet on Esports? 5 reasons to start doing it right now

Posted by David Arcane - 09 Dec 2020 14:47

Anybody interested in gambling has likely paid attention to the world of eSports: that fascination is mostly powered by the expanding popularity of this area along with a pool of lovers in addition to great games and experienced players. Now, professional gamers take part in multi-million online competitions and tournaments observed by countless bettors and simply audiences worldwide. The same as in case with another popular game, it will n` t take very long to join and begin gambling but is it worth your time and cash? Within this informative article, we'll discuss the principal eSports gaming advantages.

Read our guide to Dota 2 betting .

eSports betting: why should you join the community?

The eSports sector has been growing for the last several decades, and now, it's attained huge popularity with higher egaming stakes action. Obviously, it isn't even near conventional sports, but it requires a deserved second place after soccer, baseball, and boxing. These days, it gets quite simple to combine the community of eSports bettors with a large number of bookmakers and exchanges supplying different attractive classes. If you are still hesitating, below you can find five good reasons why it has to become the next big thing in the industry of gambling and why it is worth your attention:

1. Growth and development

It first appeared in the 1970s and was not known until the 2010s and the famous Stanford tournament. Now, the eSports industry hosts three major tournaments (Dota, League of Legends, and The International), and it is a multi-billion business with many benefits and big sponsorships. Over 300 million viewers watch esports competitions and events daily, and the audience keeps growing every year. The opportunity to play all year round with no limits like in other sports becomes another great thing to be considered; In the web you may find a lot of review websites with advice for betting and other tips. The best esports betting review site helps you find out how to earn money on your favorite games!

2. Easy access

Anyone can be a player and, from an ordinary person, become an extraordinary hero. You don` t have to be of special weight or height; you don` t need to meet any requirements that keep people from traditional sports. As long as you learn and practice, your skills and intuition grow, and so do you. You can just start betting and enjoy the process (making extra cash, of course);

3. Bookmakers` choice

For many years, bookmakers have not considered eSports betting seriously and hesitated to embrace it. Today, it is a real challenge to find the one who doesn't offer this kind of betting, while many bookmakers feature eSports like traditional sports. Land-based casinos also accepted it, creating special arenas. The great news is that you can bet even with cryptocurrencies, this is how far the industry has developed;

4. Something new

One of the key advantages that keep the viewers and players engaged is the level of unpredictability. As this is a new sport, you don't know what can come up if you bet on one or another player. The games are re-evaluated all the time, and these changes can result in different features, abilities, and other things that make gamers and bettors interested;

5. Money

The huge increase in income is probably the first thing attracting people to eSports, and this is natural. Every year the industry brings around 2 billion of profit, and this number is likely to grow twice within a few years, which makes it a great indicator of success and advantage in choosing whether to bet or not to bet.

=====